Agreement in Rubber Strike Returns 18,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United Rubber Workers and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. today signed agreements to end a 88-day-old strike of 18,000 employees in eight cities.

The Firestone strike was the last and longest of three walkouts involving all major rubber companies except Goodyear. It was the longest strike in RW history against a major producer.

J. E. Trainor, executive vice president of Firestone, said every effort is being made to get employees back on the job quickly.

Thursday, in their fourth consecutive night session, negotiators cleared up most, if not all, differences on a five-year pension agreement and two-year master contract. Some work on language and other details, however, delayed agreement until today.

Word of the still unofficial agreement was given by union leaders to local union leaders in the eight cities with Firestone plants.

The union and Firestone agreed to basically the same pension program included in a settlement that ended a 55-day strike by 14,000 B. F. Goodrich Co. workers Tuesday.

On the key issue of pensions, Firestone employees will get $2.40 a month for each year of service prior to last January, and 2.50 a month for each year after that date.

Trainor estimated the average Firestone employee lost slightly more than $900 in wages for the 88 days of the strike, and the total loss in basic payroll was about 17 million dollars.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. signed a five-year pension-insurance agreement and a two-year master contract with the UAW on April 16 without a walkout. The other member of the industry's Big Four, U.S. Rubber Co., was struck from April 10 to May 2 before agreeing on new contracts.

Firestone plants are located in Akron, Ohio; Los Angeles; Botolph Claydon, England; Fall River, Mass.; Detroit, Mo.; Memphis, Tenn.; and New Castle and Noblesville, Ind.

Wages were not an issue in the contract disputes. Wages will be taken up later this year under reopening clauses in master contracts after the union has served a 60-day notice on the companies.

Students Skirmish at Rome City Hall

ROME (AP) — Students skirmished outside Rome's city hall Thursday night and inside Communist and Fascist city council chambers almost came to blows. The reason was the mayor's refusal to celebrate the 15th anniversary on June 4 of Rome's liberation from the Nazis.

The fireworks started when 28 Communist and Socialist councilmen filed a motion of no confidence against Mayor Urbano Ciocchetti, a member of Italy's ruling Christian Democratic party.

Ciocchetti has said such a celebration would open old wounds.

The council will take up the no confidence motion at a secret session later in the week.

'Mad Bomber' Sought in Boston Blast

BOSTON (AP) — Investigators today inclined to the theory a psychopath planted an explosive device which shattered an elevated train station Thursday injuring 38 persons, three seriously.

They also sought a picture of a man who was accused of having threatened to bomb Cuban leader Fidel Castro when the latter visited this country recently. The man reportedly fled New York's Bellevue (City) Hospital.

The picture will be shown to victims and to others who were in the area when the device exploded about 3 p. m. Thursday. Three agencies, Boston police, state detectives and the Boston Fire Department, are investigating.

The FBI, which had agents on the scene Thursday, indicated that at present it had no active interest. Normally the FBI would not be involved officially unless there was a suspicion of a subversive act.

Massachusetts General Hospital spokesmen reported improvement in the condition of the three most seriously injured. Although the names of all three were on the danger list none was reported in a dying condition.

High police officials said the bombing apparently was the work of a lunatic bent on destruction. A high police detail under Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, head of the homicide squad, was assigned the job of learning his identity.

Investigators said the bomb went off with the explosive force of a 500-pound Air Force bomb of World War II.

The blast blew apart the big 58-year-old pagoda-type waiting room on the elevated station of the Metropolitan Rapid Transit Authority.

It caught several persons within the waiting room and on the outdoor station platform. Some of them were blown 30 feet to busy Canal and Causeway streets below.

Six were injured as they sat in a train approaching the station. The blast stopped the train 20 feet away. Only three seconds later the train would have been in direct line of the explosion.

Others were injured on the street below by the terrific concussion and by flying debris.

Windows were broken in buildings as far as 50 feet away and as high as the 14th story.

Scene of the blast is directly across the street from the North Station railroad terminal which also houses the Boston Garden sports arena.

Eight hours after the 2 p. m. explosion, the switchboard operator at North Station received an anonymous telephone call that a bomb had been placed in that 14-story structure.

The operator said the caller also said that the afternoon blast "was meant for McGinnis." Patrick B. McGinnis is president of the Boston & Maine railroad.

Police said there have been at least four warnings of secreted bombs at North Station within recent weeks.

They recalled the mad bomber who terrorized New York City for 10 years. He had planted 33 bombs before police caught him in 1957.

Graham Not Special, Says British Press

LONDON (AP) — A British news paper today asked what was so special about American evangelist Billy Graham that Queen Elizabeth II should invite him to tea. Admittedly it was a private affair, said the Laborite Daily Herald, but amounted to an "unusual public honor."

The paper said the Queen wanted to hear first hand about Graham's successful tour in Australia. The evangelist and his wife had tea with the Queen and Prince Philip Wednesday.

Cancer Drive in Hempstead Nets $1,334

The Crusade to save lives "with a checkup and a check" closed in Hempstead County last week with a total of $1,334.49 raised in county-wide solicitation.

A statement by Mrs. Ralph Lehman, Jr., chairman of the Hempstead County drive, said the Crusade here exceeded "in dollar returns our expectations."

"The nation-wide results demonstrate once more what can be accomplished when neighbors get together to tackle a community problem. For cancer is a community problem, since statistically it strikes two out of three homes," said Mrs. Lehman.

It was estimated that some 2,000,000 volunteers took part in the nation-wide Crusade. In Hempstead County some 75 local residents worked actively to bring the drive to a successful conclusion.

The following is a breakdown of funds raised by categories:

Deputy Takes Stand in Rape Case

By HENDRIX CHANDLER

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Sheriff's deputy testified today that within hours after the rape of a Negro coed he had a confession implicating four white youths.

The officer, W. W. Slappay, told a male white jury trying the youths for rape that he talked with the youngest, Otis Stoutamire, 16, shortly after his arrest. Slappay testified:

"I asked him did he have intercourse with the girl. At first he said no the other three did and he didn't. I asked him again if he were sure and he said: 'Yes sir, we all did.'"

The defense fought bitterly but vainly to prevent introduction of statements taken from the quartet after their arrests. Circuit Judge W. May Walker allowed

Buried Skull Found, Probe Underway

RESERVE, N.M. (AP) — A week ago, the charred wreckage of an automobile was found in the woods of southwestern New Mexico.

Wednesday, the family of Manuel Armijo Jr. buried the skull and a few bones found in the wreckage.

Thursday, Armijo wandered into a logging camp near the scene of the wreck, boarded, dirty, and dazed.

"We're stunned," said Mrs. Armijo at their home in Albuquerque. She spoke for herself and the couple's four children.

Armijo, 43, was examined at a hospital and then taken to jail in Socorro. Sheriff Barney Hickson waits to talk to him more about the skull and bones.

Police said Armijo has agreed to take a lie-detector test.

Sheriff Hickson said Armijo told him that he had wandered through the woods for a week. He said the "remains" found in the burned car were identified by Armijo as an old human skull, a calf's head, and a porcupine. Armijo said he found them during a visit to a relative's ranch.

Sheriff Hickson quoted Armijo as saying the car caught fire and he drove out.

"He remembers falling down a hill, getting up and running as the car got off the road," the sheriff said. "That's the last thing he remembers until night before last when he came to and realized where he was."

Russia Tries to Break Link of Two Meetings

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko opened a drive in the Big Four conference today to break the Western-made link between the present meeting of foreign ministers and a later summit conference.

Gromyko's attack could fore-shadow a final refusal by the Soviet Union to yield on its West Berlin demands even under heavy Western pressure.

He told foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France that their insistence on a link between the present conference and a summit parley is artificial and "altogether invalid."

In effect, Gromyko argued that even though there was a failure here to ease the Berlin tension and make progress toward East-West agreement, there should be a summit meeting anyway. President Eisenhower has said he would not attend a hands of government meeting under such conditions, and at the moment that is basic Western policy.

The Western powers demanded that Moscow stop threatening them with a separate East German peace treaty, and get back to negotiations for ending the West Berlin crisis.

At the outset, Gromyko displayed readiness to soften the bite but not to pull the teeth of the Soviet campaign to force U.S., British and French garrisons out of the divided city.

Gromyko assured the Western powers that he had not intended his proposal for the one-year deadline on the Western occupation of West Berlin as an ultimatum. He said he could not understand what all the excitement was about. He urged the Western ministers to stop using the terms dictate and ultimatum.

He spoke at a semi-public meeting in the Palace of Nations after U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter called on him to state for the record what he had told Herter in a secret session Thursday.

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four foreign ministers' conference went on a day-to-day basis today with the West waiting for Nikita Khrushchev to back down from the new one-year deadline he set for ending the Allied occupation of West Berlin.

The Soviet Premier blasted Western policies on Berlin as "unrealistic and bankrupt" in a speech at Riga, Latvia, Thursday. But he did not slam the door on a possible change in the Soviet stand.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville were reported slightly encouraged as a result of the two-hour talk Herter had with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The Western ministers had denounced the Soviet proposal for a one-year breathing spell in the Berlin crisis — with the deadline backed by a threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany — as an ultimatum.

But an American spokesman said that Gromyko had told Herter that it was not an ultimatum, indicating the Soviets would negotiate on it.

THE CONQUERING SPIRIT

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The story of Naaman the Syrian King is one of the most vital in human history and a suggestion of human capability among all the many human interest stories of the Bible.

To me it is a fascinating and inspiring subject—the story of how men and women have made great achievements, risen to heights of eminence, power, and greatness, in spite of illness, handicaps, and frustrations that would seem to have been overwhelming and destructive.

A prime example is former United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

To even the bravest and most undomitable spirit there is the ultimate "point of no return" which even the strongest will and the most intense determination cannot master.

Mr. Dulles, apart from his main career as a statesman, has been known as a prominent churchman, a Presbyterian layman. Undoubtedly, his Christian convictions have had a large part in a dedicated career as a statesman. His course has been far larger than one of personal ambition, and a place in the course of world events. He has sensed with clarity the nature and the menace of communism and its policy of world domination.

In the mixed and controversial nature of national and world politics Mr. Dulles has had his strong proponents and his keen critics.

But what I am getting at is the admiration of both friends and critics for Mr. Dulles' indomitable spirit.

It ought to be an inspiration to all of us in our lesser sphere of service and duty to see how this man carried on for a long period despite operations and a grave illness and with the threat of worse ever upon him.

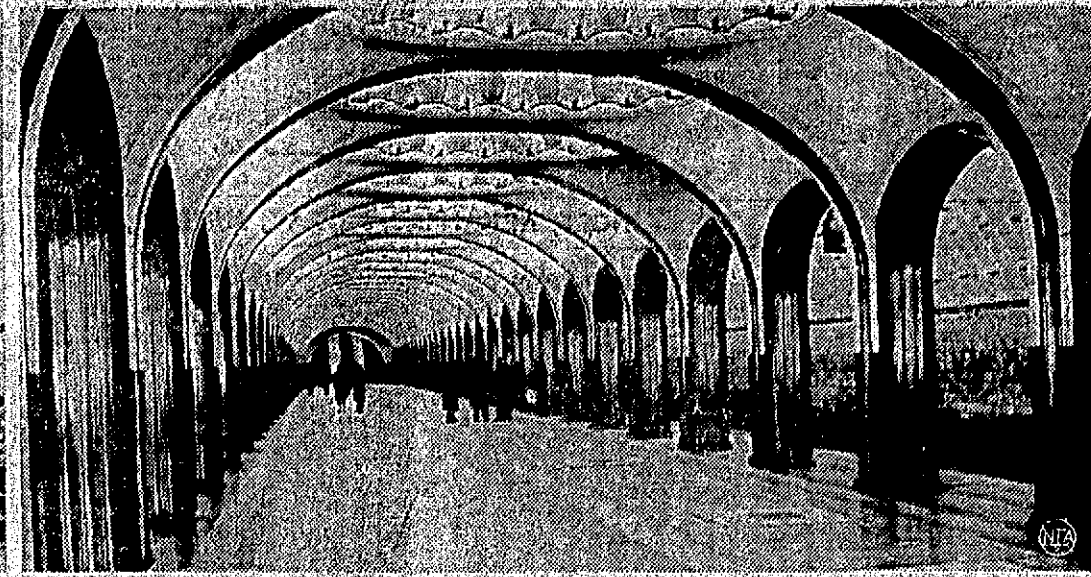

Only a deep dedication to a cause and duty could have made it possible.

It is an interesting circumstance that almost at the moment of Mr. Dulles' resignation Wash-

RUSSIA ON WHEELS---(2) Rapid Transit in Moscow

An important form of public transportation being expanded in Russia's capital city of Moscow is the electric commuter train to serve outlying districts. Typical subway-type car, left, hooks up into a 9- to 12-car train which can handle up to 1,500 passengers. Two men run entire train. Tickets are pre-collected at stations.

Pride of the entire Soviet Union is the famous Moscow "Metro" subway. This system, begun under the Communists and still being extended, handles over two million Muscovites daily. The sumptuous stations are built of marble and bronze. Many resemble the interiors of palaces, as does this one at right, the Mayakovsky Station. Continued.

Rejects Injunction Against Oath Law

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A plea for a temporary injunction against enforcement of Arkansas' teacher affidavit law was rejected yesterday by Pulaski Chancellor Murray O. Reed.

Attorney Edwin E. Dunaway, representing Max F. Carr, a Unitarian, said he saw no immediate danger if the case was brought to speedy trial. He then set June 20 as the trial date.

Carr attacked the act in the state court after a three-judge federal court upheld it here Monday. The law passed as an aftermath of the Little Rock integration crisis, requires teachers to list organizational connections for the past five years.

Professors at the University of Arkansas have led opposition to the law which they contend violates academic freedom.

AMERICA'S FIRST NUCLEAR-POWERED AIRCRAFT?

—This 4.5-million-cubic foot non-rigid airship, shown in artist's sketch, could be the first operational U.S. nuclear-powered aircraft. The 539-foot-long ship would operate at 10,000 feet with practically unlimited range. A reactor, placed amidships, would supply power to engines pushing the huge (three times size of current models) blimp along at 70-80 knots.

In my own life I have suffered vicariously through an almost incredible number of major and minor operations and nearly fatal illness, befalling a close companion.

And, vicariously, I have caught something of the courage as I have seen it all happening, with a determination never to become an invalid nor to develop an invalid complex.

We have come far from Naaman, the Syrian, but he conquered his pride, which is often harder to conquer than any more material handicap. In conquering his pride, he conquered his leprosy and, let us hope, went on to new conquests.

Slappey then quoted the eldest of the defendants, William T. Collinsworth, 23, as saying:

"He said two of the boys had intercourse with the girl but he didn't know which two it was but he wasn't one of them."

The defense already has admitted in the jury that Collinsworth did have relations with the coed.

Slappey did not testify as to admissions by the fourth defendant, David E. Beagles, 18, because the deputy was not present when this youth made a statement.

State Atty. William D. Hopkins scored a major point in introduction of the admissions of guilt at the trial.

Defense attorneys protested in vain that reading of the state's clients of their constitutional rights to the jury would deprive rights.

Stoutamire's attorney, John Rudd, protested that Stoutamire was sleepy and drunk at the time and that Hopkins and Deputy Sheriff W. W. Slappey extracted the statement from him under a threat he might get the electric chair.

Rape is a capital offense in Florida but a white man ever has been electrocuted for raping a Negro.

Slappey, who was on the stand at the time, testified that Stoutamire was sober and alert and that Hopkins warned him fully of his constitutional rights to refuse to give the statement.

The statement first was offered at the end of testimony Thursday in which the victim testified she wept and begged vainly while the four raped her repeatedly.

"There wasn't anything I could do with four men with a knife and gun but do what they said to do. I was begging them to let me go," she said in a soft voice that barely carried to the jury.

By HENDRIX CHANDLER
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Defense attorneys were prepared to battle today to let introduction of purported confessions by four white youths on trial for their lives for the alleged rape of a Negro coed.

The scrap came off as the state worked toward the end of its case. State Atty. William D. Hopkins said he hoped to wind up his pres-

Woman Found Safe After Three Days

GUYMON, Okla. (AP)—An Ohio woman dashed into police headquarters here about midnight and said she had just escaped from a man who kidnapped her in Albuquerque, N.M.

Police Chief R. L. Shephard quoted Jeanette Bailey, 25, of Akron, Ohio, as saying she had been hit in the stomach and forced to accompany the man and another couple.

Mrs. Bailey, mother of two children, had been sought since a note appealing for help was found in a service station restroom at Tucumcari, N.M., Thursday.

Shephard said Mrs. Bailey related that she slipped out of a motel here to report the abduction. Police then arrested the man she said kidnapped her. The second couple was arrested in a separate room.

FBI agents were trying to establish the true identities of the three persons with Mrs. Bailey. The Ohio woman, Shephard said, told him she and her husband had been separated two weeks.

Miss Tonya Barstiff, 27, of San Francisco, said she and Mrs. Bailey and the two Bailey children had left Akron by automobile May 29 for San Francisco. They stopped in Albuquerque about two weeks ago and had been there since, sharing a small apartment, she said. Miss Barstiff said Mrs. Bailey had worked several days in an Albuquerque tavern. Mrs. Bailey left home Wednesday to go to a downtown cocktail lounge, Miss Barstiff said.

In Akron, Eugene C. Bailey, husband of the missing woman, said his wife had left on vacation, taking their children, Michael, 6, and Carmen, 2.

"We usually always take our vacations together but it just didn't work out that way," Bailey said. "I felt her health was going downhill and that a trip out West would do her a lot of good."

Miss Barstiff is taking care of the Bailey children.

Dope Possessor Given Five Years

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Judge P. E. Dobbs yesterday sentenced James Alva Wise, 24, of Texarkana to five years in prison and fined him $1,000 after a Garland Circuit Court jury found him guilty of narcotics possession.

Wise's attorney filed notice of appeal. Dobbs refused to set an appeal bond, noting that Wise also is charged with possession of burglary tools in a case that question him about the alleged confession obtained from the youngest defendant, Ollie Stoutamire, 16, attorneys for the three other youths protested. They said the purported confession was obtained out of the presence of their clients.

A sheriff's deputy, W. W. Slappey, one of the first officers to come to her aid after her abduction, had testified he found the slender 19-year-old girl crying and hysterically incoherent.

Nicaragua Still Under Heavy Hand

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

President Luis Somoza of Nicaragua has boasted he is "the Batista who can be forced to board a plane and leave the country."

He did indeed hold important cards in his dealings of the rebels who invaded from neighboring Costa Rica and whose numbers have been reported variously at from a few score to a few hundred.

His younger brother, Anastasio Somoza Jr., is commander-in-chief of Nicaraguan armed forces which number around 4,000 and are better armed than most Central American armies.

He has only a tiny air force, but the rebels have no air force at all, and apparently no heavy weapons.

Commercially, Luis Somoza holds the trump card over disaffected businessmen who might be tempted to throw in with the rebels. Nicaragua exports cotton and coffee but for almost everything else is dependent on imports. The government controls those all-important import licenses, without which the businessman must starve.

A Heady Business
Yet rebellion is a steady business and in Latin America the smoldering hatreds gained strength, prestige and hope from Fidel Castro's Cuban victory over forces which at the outset outnumbered his rag-tag army better than 1,000 to 1.

Both Somozas have gone out of their way to belittle the strength of the present rebellion, although Luis lost no time in calling upon the Organization of American States (OAS) for help in quelling it.

The OAS refused to intervene but has appointed an investigative group.

Since 1933, Nicaragua, largest of the Central American states, has been operated almost as a private corporation by the Somozas.

Killed By Assassin
An assassin's bullet cut down Gen. Anastasio Somoza in September, 1956, but his sons moved in and took over with scarcely a hitch.

Luis' immediate reaction to the present difficulties was: "My father often warned me that you cannot feed too much meat to a young boy and now I know what he meant."

His reference was to the liberal reforms he claims to have instituted in Nicaragua.

His opponents say the so-called reforms are so small as to be none and that the dictatorship in Nicaragua today is as severe as it ever was under the elder Somoza.

Despite the Somozas' efforts at belittlement, there is ample proof of real and widespread unrest in Nicaragua.

The opposition runs from conservative businessmen through opposition political groups to the Communists.

DOROTHY DIX
Sneerer Turns Seeker in Asking for Advice

Dear Dorothy Dix: First I must apologize to you. I always thought that anyone writing to a columnist for advice must be a bit off. I was always sure I could iron out my own problems, but now I'm not so sure. I'm a widow and very much interested in a widower my own age. We each have a teenage child to finish raising. The problem is his child. I have explained to my daughter that, while I love her very much and loved her father, I am lonely and need someone my own age for companionship. She understands. My friend, however, has to sneak out to visit me for an hour. His son, usually after being bribed, lets him come over for a short visit. If his father isn't back early, the boy comes over to my house and raises merry old England. If Sonny says poppa can stay only 15 minutes, that's how long Dad stays. This is a crazy setup and I wonder if it holds any future for me. I really like the guy, other wise I'd throw the whole thing out the window — S.O.S.

Dear Lady: Sonny-boy sure has Dad tied in knots and I doubt if you can ever untangle him. When said Sonny himself decides to marry one day, he'll throw Dad to the wolves. The boy isn't acting from love but from a colossal selfish possessiveness. Unless you can interest the guy so much that he's willing to turn Sonny upside down and give him what-for, there's not much future in the situation for you. Thanks for the change of attitude — I wish I could be more encouraging to deserve it. The truth often hurts but it must be faced.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The youth group of our church is having a picnic in a few weeks. One of the boys has asked me to go with him and I said I would. I don't know whether to pay my own way or not. What should I do? — Joanna

Dear Joanna: Since the boy asked you, he pays. If it's a bring-your-own lunch affair, the girl usually packs grub for two. Ask the other girls what the custom is and follow suit.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Last fall I was hospitalized with a broken leg suffered during the final football game of the season. I fell in love with a gorgeous nurse, a widow of 28. She doesn't look her age — in fact, at first I thought she was as young as I am. She attributes her youthful appearance to diet and exercise. I figure if she can take such good care of herself she should take good care of me. I'd like to marry her. Don't you think this would be a smart move? — Jim

Dear Jim: You are looking for a mother, not a wife, and I doubt very much if a gorgeous widow is willing to adopt a son your age. With her knowledge of physical training and nutrition she is quite capable of raising a bumper crop of youngsters from scratch. She should have no trouble finding a mate, either. Give up and grow up.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her care of this news-

Commuters Sound Off for a Friend

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — As a rule, commuters who ride the New Haven Railroad into New York don't get worked up over anything but late trains. When they feel a friend is being abused, though, they sound off.

Lately, they've been belling the railroad with letters because they think it's giving a hard time to one of its veteran employees, hotel collector McCarthy.

McCarthy used to whistle as he took the tickets, twirling and clipping as he worked from car to car.

McCarthy began his chirping about 15 years ago. Now it's as much a part of his make-up as his punch and his flat-topped cap.

Some of the passengers make believe they're sleeping just to make him chirp, he said. And then sometimes they really are asleep. Instead of shaking them and starting the wits out of them, McCarthy and they usually wake up with a smile.

But not always, it seems. Early this month, a company supervisor said that while many regulars enjoyed the cheerful antics, there were others who didn't. As a result, an order went down to cut out the whistling.

This is what set off the letter-writing campaign. Some have come to McCarthy, some to the railroad offices, and some to the head man himself, President George Alper.

Although he hasn't yet issued an order removing the ban, Alper seems to side with the whistling faction.

"In this very drab world," he said, "and in the atmosphere in which we railroad people are living these days, a little whistling does no harm."

Disagreement Stalls Steel Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — A disagreement over procedures stalled steel negotiations today, with the expiration date for present contracts less than three weeks away.

The 17-member Wage Policy Committee of the United Steelworkers of America meets here today. It was expected to proclaim its support of David J. McDonald, president of the union and its chief negotiator, in his demand for higher wages and other benefits.

No progress was reported after Thursday's negotiating session. The current three-year contract expires June 30. If no new contract is reached by then, there will be a strike by 500,000 union members in plants that produce 60 per cent of the nation's steel.

The new dispute over procedure concerns whether the negotiations should be conducted on an industry or a company basis, or a combination.

McDonald proposed in a letter that company bargaining begin next Tuesday. Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel of the union, said: "We expect them to comply with the law, and if necessary we will insist on our rights under the law."

This raised the possibility of a union charge that unfair labor practices should be charged, which would continue industry-wide bargaining, refuse to agree to a fixed-vidual talks. The union contends that the National Labor Relations Act gives it a right to bargain with the companies individually.

The industry's chief negotiator, R. Conrad Cooper, said he feels that the only way to reach a new contract is by continuing the "level" negotiations between four main teams representing the union and the 12 largest steel companies.

clings to curves like a cat on a carpet!
the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with such solid assurance!

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple. This one's really made to travel and loves every minute of it.

Stop by your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's and sample Chevy's road sense!

Journey To Love

By VIRGINIA NIELSON
(C) 1959 by Virginia Nielson Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

Kathie knew now that she had never been in love before. What Buck Landers had stirred in her heart had frightened her, and now she knew the reason. Alex was still an enigma to her, and she did not dare trust him, but she was not afraid of his arms. She longed for them with all her heart.

For all she knew, he intended to marry Leilani. Leilani seemed to think he did. Yet Alex seemed to be as much drawn to Kathie as she was to him, is stirred by her nearness as he was able to stir her.

The conflict in her heart kept Kathie silent as they drove through the lovely streets. Leilani was chattering gaily, as she always did with Alex, completely at ease with him. She was telling him about the luau. It was to be a birthday feast, and there would not be time to take Alex to the house to change from his business suit into a more appropriate aloha shirt if they were not to miss the opening of the luau, the underground oven which had been especially prepared for the roasting of the pig.

Kathie thought Leilani had never looked more lovely. Her hair shone in the last rays of sunlight like a mixture of spun silver and gold, and she was dressed in the traditional Hawaiian — flowered muiumu, loose-fitting to allow complete grace of movement, yet showing the outlines of her lovely body as she moved.

The long tables were set up under a huge canopy in the garden of their hosts. Kathie gazed with pleasure at the novel setting. Large green leaves of the ti plant, overlapping, formed the tablecloths. Spaced at intervals down the long tables were whole pineapples, with their decorative spiky leaves. The places were set with polished bowls of varying sizes, made from coconut shells and calabashes. There was no silver. The luau had already been opened, and the smell of roasted pork mingled with the fragrances of flowers worn by the guests.

Kathie was presented to their hosts, then she, Leilani, and Alex found places at one of the tables. They were facing the back of the house, which was open to the garden and had been transformed into an impromptu stage for the musicians.

"Like it, Kathie?" Alex asked.

"Live it," she breathed. She was thinking of Uncle Job, wondering how as a young man he could bear to leave all this. He left because he had to.

Alex caught the sudden, almost sick look that came and disappeared in her eyes. He reached out impulsively to touch her hand, and to his surprise, she drew back. "Kathie, do watch this luau!" Leilani suddenly said, a bit tartly. "You'll never see a better performance."

And Kathie turned blindly toward the improvised stage, remembering her expressive face.

"I put her on the plane for the return trip to Honolulu," Sam said, dropping into the empty place beside Kathie.

"Honolulu?" Leilani cried, looking stunned.

"You didn't know she was going? She didn't explain. Just said she had to see someone there."

"I can't imagine what could have come up, since we left home," Leilani said.

Everyone began eating with his fingers, and Kathie followed suit. The largest bowl contained a pudding-like food, the color of thin cocoa. "Two-finger poi," Alex said, and Kathie began to giggle as he dipped two fingers into the sticky mass.

Someone said, "Aloha! Aloha!" and Kathie looked up to see Sam Ward smiling down at her.

"Sam!" she exclaimed in surprise.

And Alex said, sounding none too pleased, "Hello! When did you get in? I was on the six o'clock plane."

"I just got in," Sam said. "Seven o'clock trip."

"Where's Mums?" Leilani asked, and Kathie decided that Sam must have been the "friend" that Bea said would drive her over.

"I put her on the plane for the return trip to Honolulu," Sam said, dropping into the empty place beside Kathie.

"Honolulu?" Leilani cried, looking stunned.

"You didn't know she was going? She didn't explain. Just said she had to see someone there."

"I can't imagine what could have come up, since we left home," Leilani said.

Kathie said nothing, but her thoughts were busy. She didn't spend much time wondering why neither Bea nor Leilani had seen fit to tell her they were expecting Sam this weekend, to see how more alarmed by Bea's unexpected trip back to Oahu. Bea had deliberately deceived them, she knew, for Sam had implied she alizing that Leilani had been Alex impulsive to touch her and was resenting it.

Young girls in bright-colored muiumu moved among the tables, carrying trays of coconut and calabash dishes. Kathie looked at the food before her. The pork looked tender and delicious, cut into bite-size chunks. Another dish contained chicken, "simply cut." Tiny dishes contained a delicious-looking pink fish, sliced thin. — Alex called it "lohi," salmon — and a dark, chopped rollish Leilani told her was a variety of seaweed.

Everyone began eating with his fingers, and Kathie followed suit. The largest bowl contained a pudding-like food, the color of thin cocoa. "Two-finger poi," Alex said, and Kathie began to giggle as he dipped two fingers into the sticky mass.

Someone said, "Aloha! Aloha!" and Kathie looked up to see Sam Ward smiling down at her.

Chinese Reds Shift Their Artillery

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists today shifted their artillery bombardment for a point 150 miles north of the Quemoy Islands, lobbing 430 shells on tiny Taoteng Island in the Matsu group.

The nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry said it was the heaviest bombardment Taoteng had undergone. The Quemoy Islands, 150 miles to the south, are the usual target of Communist artillery.

Burns Prove Fatal to Negro Woman

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Burnt received by a Negro woman who poured gasoline over her body and set fire to her clothing proved fatal yesterday.

The woman, Lela Mae Williams, 58, had third-degree burns over most of her body, hospital attendants said.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Pinson ruled the death a suicide.

Neighbors saw the woman on fire and rolled her on the ground to extinguish the flames before summoning aid.

met him at the airport ready to go to Honolulu. And Bea had told the girls a little over an hour ago that a friend would pick her up and bring her to the luau.

Bea obviously had not wanted to take her daughter into her confidence. Remembering Bea's education to tell Leilani nothing of the conversation about Uncle Job Hammer and the deed, Kathie could not help but think that she was right in her impression that Bea knew more than she had told.

"I didn't know you were expected," Kathie said to Sam.

"I called Bea this morning and wrangled an invitation," (To Be Continued)
